Ignores Goldwater's Demands

Fulbright Brands Saigon As 'An American Brothel'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ignoring Barry Goldwater's demand that he step down as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Sen. J. W. Fulbright has challenged new controversy by calling Saigon "an American brothel."

The outspoken Arkansas senator said what is happening to the capital of South Viet Nam is the result of the "fatal impact" that a rich strong civilization—"even when acting with the best of intentions"—can have on a poor weak one.

Fulbright, concluding Thursday night his series of lectures at Johns Hopkins University's School of Advanced International Studies, said published reports of the impact of Americans and American money on Saigon show:

— "That many Vietnamese find it necessary to put their wives or daughters to work as bar girls or to peddle them to American soldiers as mistresses; — "That it is not unusual to hear a report that a Vietnamese soldier has committed suicide out of shame because his wife has been working as a bar girl.

— "That as a result of the American influx, bar girls, prostitutes, pimps, bar owners and taxi drivers have risen to the higher levels of the economic pyramid;

— "That middle class Vietnamese families have difficulties renting homes because Americans have driven up the rent beyond their reach and some Vietnamese families have actually been evicted from houses and apartments by landlords who prefer to rent to the affluent Americans."

"Both literally and figuratively, Saigon has become an American brothel," Fulbright said.

An outspoken critic of President Johnson's Viet Nam policies, the senator delivered his lecture a few hours after Goldwater, the Republicans' 1964 presidential candidate, denounced him for what he termed carping criticism "that lends aid and comfort to our enemies."

Goldwater told a conference of Republican women that Fulbright "could do no greater service for his nation and the American fighting men in Viet Nam, than to resign as foreign relations committee chairman."

Goldwater said he was ashamed of Fulbright "telling the American people that our power has made Americans arrogant, and self-righteous, and expansionist and immoral."

Fulbright also drew some fire from another Republican, Thomas E. Dewey.

Dewey, the GOP presidential standard bearer in 1944 and 1948, said Fulbright "served the country very badly" by criticizing the administration's Viet Nam policies.

Fulbright has stressed what he sees as the danger of arrogance of power in his Johns Hopkins lectures and in other speeches. A week ago Fulbright declared that "America is showing some signs of that fatal presumption, that overextension of power and mission, which brought ruins to ancient Athens, to Napoleonic France and to Nazi Germany."

But Fulbright told his audience Thursday night, "I do not think for a moment that America, with its deeply rooted democratic traditions, is likely to embark upon a campaign to dominate the world in the manner of a Hitler or Napoleon."

"What I do fear is that it may be drifting into commitments which, though generous and benevolent in intent, are so universal as to exceed even America's great capabilities."

President's Prediction Conservative

Outlays Of $2.15 Billion Over LBJ's Request OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's prediction that Congress might boost his budget to the tune of $3 billion appears conservative in the light of recent developments on Capitol Hill.

During the week ending today, Congress or its committees have approved legislation calling for outlays of around $2.15 billion more than the President requested for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Over-all, the election-year Congress has tentatively added an estimated $2.8 billion to Johnson's requests since the session started in January. And the session is not yet at the halfway mark, according to the congressional adjournment timetable.

In some of the budget-busting moves, the few leaders in the campaign to slash federal spending have gone along with the increases. In others they have offered only token opposition in the face of certain defeat.

The House started off the week's spending spree by passing without an audible dissenting vote a $2.95 billion higher education bill which rejected the President's plan to save about $160 million by shifting much of the student loan financing from public to private lenders. The authorization bill still must be considered by the Senate and financed later.

The House followed that action Thursday by sending to the Senate a bill to appropriate $10.5 billion to finance the Labor Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the year starting July 1.

The bill included $489.2 million more than the President sought, much of the extra money being for payments to school districts in an estimated 350 congressional districts. The budget-cutters tried to reduce the school payments by $232.8 million but lost by a standing vote of 132 to 25.

Off the floor of Congress, the House Armed Services Committee added about $1.5 billion to the annual military procurement bill which must be financed in a later measure.

The increase over authorization requested by the President was $931 million for procurement, about $420 million for military pay hikes and an estimated $116 million for medical care for dependents of military personnel. Johnson did not include the latter two programs in his budget.

The Senate also passed a military procurement bill last week, but that measure called for only $243.1 million more than the President requested. There was

Appreciation Dinner Held
Industry Sites Stressed
In Rhodes' Wellsville Talk

The need for suitable sites for industrial development in the Wellsville area was emphasized by Gov. James A. Rhodes during his talk at the Industry Appreciation dinner of the Wellsville Chamber of Commerce Thursday night.

The governor said 15 industries at one time were directly or indirectly interested in locating in the area, but could not for lack of suitable locations.

"Get industry sites so we can help get industry settled in this section of the state," Rhodes urged. "It is your city and no one can build it like the people who live here."

More than 100 attended the banquet at the First Christian Church.

The governor re-emphasized his objective of promoting employment to solve the social ills of the state and pointed out there is need for equal distribution of industry in the state.

He congratulated Columbiana County on its progress in obtaining an airport. "You needed an airport," he declared.

Transportation facilities are vital to industrial growth, the governor stated. "No one will make an outlay of millions of dollars for new plants if they have to ride around two or three hours in these hills to spend their money," he commented.

"Every crisis comes from unemployment. Lack of jobs fills our mental and penal institutions and causes racial problems and strife," he continued.

"State officials can devise programs and provide you the initiative, but the remainder is up to the people of each community."

"Create an attitude and atmosphere for growth," he urged in warning against residents continually talking "against" their own community.

Stephen H. Eibling, commercial manager of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. here, was toastmaster and introduced the governor.

Girl 'Critical' After Tumble From Truck

A 5-year-old Wellsville area girl, hurt in a fall from a truck on the nearby farm of her grandparents, was in "critical" condition today at City Hospital.

Tina Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Metts of the Old Salineville Rd., suffered facial bruises, rib injuries and possible internal injuries in the mishap about 8 p. m. at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. John Buxton of the Old Salineville Rd.

The family said the child was on the back of a truck operated by Donald Buxton of Riverside Ave., Wellsville, who was obtaining fertilizer near the barn of his parents.

Buxton said the girl was sitting down when he glanced back, but when the truck began to move she apparently fell over the side.

The child's mother is a daughter of the older Buxtons.

Fierce Fighting Rages

141 Of 100 Killed, With 30 Captured

Largest Battle In Recent Weeks; Two Navy Planes Lost

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Fierce fighting raged today in central Viet Nam as American air cavalrymen closed in on a trapped Communist battalion. A U.S. spokesman said 141 Viet Cong had been killed in 24 hours, 30 captured and 307 suspects rounded up.

The U.S. command said elements of the 1st Air Cavalry, Airmobile Division exchanged heavy fire throughout the day with about 300 Viet Cong troops and that at last reports the action — called Operation Davy Crockett — was continuing.

The battle — largest ground fighting in recent weeks — erupted Thursday about 10 miles north of Bong Son, near the China Sea and about 280 miles northeast of Saigon.

In the air war, the U.S. command announced the loss of two Navy planes Thursday in addition to an Air Force plane announced earlier. Two of the pilots parachuted safely to the ground but heavy antiaircraft fire drove off rescue helicopters. The third pilot ejected into the Gulf of Tonkin and was rescued by a sea plane.

A total of 231 planes now have been reported lost over the North.

The raiders came within 15 miles of Hanoi Thursday, a spokesman said, and attacked a road segment northeast of the North Vietnamese capital. Only once before in the war have American planes come that close to Hanoi. That was on April 17, when Air Force planes pounded missile sites 15 and 17 miles south and southwest of the capital.

The spokesman said Air Force and Navy planes flew a total of 48 missions in the North Thursday after a two-day lull due to bad weather. They also hit trucks 20 miles from Hanoi, railroad yards 35 miles north of it, and communication targets around Dien Bien Phu and Dong Hoi.

The Strategic Air Command's B52 Stratofortress came in from Guam today to attack the Communist C zone near the Cambodian frontier for the eighth time in nine days. The U. S. 1st Infantry Division continued Operation Birmingham in the area some 75 miles northwest of Saigon.

U. S. fighter-bombers flew 313 sorties against suspected Communist targets in South Viet Nam Thursday with the airman reporting many buildings destroyed or damaged, eight sampans demolished and seven Viet Cong killed.

The cavalry action near Bong Son began Wednesday with two light skirmishes.

4 Battalions Added To U.S. Viet Forces

Adds 250 Cannons To Boost Army's Ground Firepower

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four artillery battalions have been added to the U.S. forces in Viet Nam since January in a further strengthening of the Army's ground firepower, Defense Department spokesmen said today.

These additions bring the total artillery battalions now stationed in the Southeast Asian country to about 21, comprising about 10,000 men and some 250 heavy duty cannons.

This level is described as sufficient to meet present needs, although the United States can order another dozen artillery battalions to duty if necessary in the coming months.

The ground artillery operations were pointed up with first official disclosure that U.S. troops had blasted across the Cambodian border at Communist forces.

It was learned that 165mm howitzers were used to bombard Communist positions in that attack. This light cannon has a range of about 10 miles.

Other heavy duty weaponry spread among the artillery battalions include the 155mm and 175mm howitzers and 8-inch cannons with about 18-mile ranges.

The feasibility of putting more ground artillery into Viet Nam has been under study for some months.

In March Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told senators the number of artillery battalions in the country had been raised from three last July to 17 in December "and if it is desired we can double that this year."

Such a doubling would increase artillery manpower to 17,000, along with perhaps 200 more cannon.

Pentagon officials were asked why additional artillery sections are needed in view of the massive amount of U.S. air power in Viet Nam.

Their answer: while planes are favored for some missions, ground artillery provides an all-weather, day and night capability. Attack aircraft can be thwarted by poor visibility due to clouds or darkness.

Some Street Lights Knocked Out By Wind

A section of street lights in the upper end of Wellsville were knocked out of commission Thursday night when the wind caused a conductor on one of the lines to break.

Police said the blackout occurred about 10, with Ohio Power Co. crews restoring service about 1 a. m. today.

A similar incident occurred in East Liverpool. The service was restored, but the cause has not been determined, utility officials said.

Not Needed, McNamara Says

Cutback Looms In Bomber Alert

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has ordered a reduction in the continuous airborne alert of B52 bombers, it was disclosed today.

He told the House Appropriations Committee the constant bomber alert aloft, conducted for more than five years, no longer is needed because:

— The U.S. radar warning system is good enough to get the bomber force off the ground before enemy missiles can destroy the aircraft.

— Of "the declining importance of bombers in relations to missiles."

No indication of the extent of the reduction was available.

McNamara's testimony, given in secret earlier this year, seemed certain to arouse new criticism from advocates of the bomber and from those who question reliance on missiles.

The defense secretary's published words gave the impression that the airborne alert will be ended entirely.

But the Defense Department said this is not so — that there

GM Will Idle More In Slash Of Operations

To Get Production Schedules In Line With Current Stock

DETROIT (AP) — Several hundred auto production workers have been laid off and hundreds more face furloughs because General Motors Corp. is cutting back production for the first time in five years.

GM, the world's largest automaker, said Thursday the cutbacks were to "get production schedules in line with current stocks in the field."

GM was the only one of the big auto firms to announce cutbacks.

At the same time, Ford scheduled 10 of its assembly plants on overtime operations Saturday. Chrysler and American Motors were on regular five-day weeks.

All the companies were expected to be mentioned today in Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's report on auto defects.

The Connecticut Democrat, head of a Senate subcommittee probing auto safety, recently asked the four major U.S. auto firms to list all manufacturing and design defects found in cars since 1960.

GM, Ford, Chrysler and AMC sent their lists to Washington Thursday. They are due to make them public in Detroit at exactly the hour that Ribicoff begins a Washington news conference today (2 p.m. EDT).

The newest development in the government's efforts to reduce highway fatalities came as GM revealed the production cutback.

GM made no announcement of the cutbacks, but in answer to newsmen's queries, said Chevrolet lines in Ypsilanti, Mich.,

'Open Letter' Circulated
Basic Principles Okayed
For Protestants' Merger

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dear Church Member:

If your denomination is among those seeking to form a united church, and you wonder why, a letter presenting the case for it today is en route to you.

It was drawn up by the Consultation on Church Union (CCU) whose fifth annual meeting closed here Thursday with sweeping agreement on the basic principles for uniting eight major Protestant bodies.

Their representatives also dispatched the "open letter" for circulation to the more than 24 million members who would be involved, and who might be asking the reasons for the projected great realignment.

The letter's primary thesis is that the church, by its inherent nature, is a single community "united to its one Savior and Lord."

The 3,000-word letter observes that since "our divisions and dissensions" contradict the essential call to one unifying

Lord, this confuses and blurs the Christian appeal to men."

The letter cites this key point: "It is precisely because God has made us one that we are impelled to acknowledge, express and seek our deepest unity."

Toward that end, the gathering of denominational representatives unanimously approved the set of mutual convictions, arrived at after five years work, as the basis of a united church.

They cover a broad consensus on Christian fundamentals — beliefs, worship, baptism, the Bible, creeds, the Lord's Supper and duties of the ministry, both lay and clerical.

In Move To Unify Party

Reams Eying McIlwain As Democratic Chairman

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Frazier Reams Jr., the Democratic nominee for governor, may ask his primary election opponent to become state chairman in a dramatic move to unify the party for a hard-hitting fall campaign.

Harry M. McIlwain, who lost to Reams by 100,000 votes, told the Associated Press he would seriously consider such an offer.

"I have heard some talk along that line but I have not been approached," McIlwain said. "I would give it serious consideration," he added, "but it would have to be a first class operation or I wouldn't want it."

Reams said in Toledo that he had not talked with McIlwain about taking the job but other ranking Democrats told the AP it had been discussed with the Cincinnati attorney.

Actual selection of a state chairman is up to the Democratic State Central Committee, but members usually defer to the gubernatorial nominee's wishes.

William L. Coleman, retiring as state chairman after 10 years following nomination for lieutenant governor, has called a meeting of the committee tentatively for May 16.

Coleman, who practices law in Marysville, was adamant in declaring that he was unavailable to continue as state chairman. He has weathered several ouster attempts in recent years by dissident party factions that Reams hopes to unify.

"I'm here to unify and strengthen and build a better Democratic Party in Ohio," Reams stressed.

Democratic leaders who favored Reams over McIlwain for the party nomination expressed belief that selection of the Cincinnati as state chairman would go far in bringing fighting factions together.

McIlwain displayed primary strength in his home county of Hamilton and southern Ohio generally. His hard campaign throughout the state convinced many that he is chairmanship timber, party leaders assert.

His name popped up about the time that Morton Neipp, Reams' Toledo law partner, definitely took himself out of consideration for the post.

Mothers Set Up Pickets At Two Schools

STUEBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A controversy over alleged unsafe road conditions is keeping children out of school at the nearby community of Tiltonsville.

A group of mothers set up picket lines in front of two schools Thursday in protest of what they called roads too dangerous for school buses to use.

About 15 mothers picketed the Warren Consolidated High School in Tiltonsville while six others marched in front of Rayland Elementary School there.

The mothers have kept about 150 pupils out of the two schools off and on since rains last weekend caused an earth slide on a narrow road between Glen Robbins and Rayland. The women are from the Glen Robbins area.

The road is owned by the Village of Rayland. Mayor William Del Vecchio of that community said it would cost $30,000 to correct the condition, which has occurred off and on since 1939.

"It's something we in Rayland live with," the mayor said. "We can't afford $30,000 so we try to keep it (the road) as safe as we can."

An alternate route to Rayland which buses use has three wooden bridges which the mothers say are in poor condition.

Glenmoor Youth Cited In Entry At Waterford

A Glenmoor area youth accused of burglary of a restaurant at Waterford Park race track is in custody of juvenile authorities at Lisbon after his arrest Thursday night, police reported.

Officers said the boy may be prosecuted on charges pending against him in Columbiana County rather than being released to Hancock County authorities for the restaurant burglary.

The Glenmoor boy's citation was the indirect result of an incident early Thursday in which officers here picked up three Newell boys, 17 and 16, for a curfew violation. The Glenmoor boy also was in the group, but escaped on foot, officers said. Some change taken in the Hancock burglary was found in possession of one of the Newell boys, who said it had been given to him by the Glenmoor youth.

Lindsay's Fight To The Finish

The climactic move in Mayor Lindsay's drive to carry out his election mandate to uproot the Establishment in the nation's largest city was made this week.

The young mayor and his imported police commissioner, Howard R. Leary, revealed the details of their plan to set up a civilian-controlled board to examine complaints against the police department. This joins the issue between the Lindsay administration and the majority of New York's 27,000 policemen, who say they will block civilian review at any cost. They are backed up in this adamant position by many of New York City's ultra-rightists.

But Mayor Lindsay was not elected by the people fighting him on this issue. He was elected by New York voters fed up with the way the mayor's opponents had been running New York City. The Lindsay voters were critical of all facets of the Establishment — the old-line Tammany-type Democrats, the policemen who believed they were a law unto themselves and should be answerable to no one but other policemen, the deficit spenders, the entire "in" group.

The Lindsay voters wanted something new. They wanted a city administration responsive to something besides the wishes of the Establishment — and in no city in the United States was an Establishment more clearly defined than it was in New York before last November.

One of the things the Lindsay majority wanted was a police department whose acts could be discussed with someone besides a policeman. Hence, a civilian-controlled board of review. The board only can hear testimony. It cannot impose punishment. Authority to do that is with the police commissioner, where it always has been.

What's radical about that idea? Is there anything revolutionary about the right to register a complaint in this Republic with someone other than the people against whom the complaint is being registered?

'What Is A Man Profited?'

Henry Ford II has made one of those rare speeches containing an idea whose impact will be multiplied and remultiplied by repetition.

Addressing the National Association of Purchasing Agents in Detroit, he said Americans are showing widespread dissatisfaction with their vaunted way of life because there is no connection between gross national product and gross national satisfaction.

"The economic and technological triumphs of the past few years," he said, "have not solved as many problems as we thought they would and, in fact, have brought us new problems we did not foresee."

The materialistic yardstick by itself is meaningless, in other words.

"What really counts when we measure social progress," explained the auto manufacturer, "is not the ingenuity of technology or the growth of national product, but the quality of our society and our individual lives. The basic measures of social achievement are such things as human satisfaction and fulfillment and the growth of harmony, good will and respect among men."

Instead, he recounted, Americans have violence, despair, rebellion for rebellion's sake, irreconcilability, extreme rightists, extreme leftists, crime, violence and demagoguery. Mr. Ford doesn't think this is what Americans should have achieved at this turn in their history.

He questions whether it has been enough just to pile up stupendous statistics on production, employment, earnings and all the other measurable things. He did not make the Biblical quotation that goes with the thought, but it's still there in the Book of Matthew: "What is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

Nature Might Have A Plan

Dr. E. Frederick Wheelock of Western Reserve University School of Medicine may not make a momentous dent on medical knowledge with a theory that common colds help to build immunity against serious afflictions, but he has made a dent on common victims of the common cold.

The doctor's most exciting thought is that even leukemia and other forms of cancer may be warded off by viruses whose presence can be attributed to the common cold.

There is more to this than comfort for victims of the common cold. If it could be scientifically established that common colds may be beneficial, it would be a boon to all believers in natural balance. These people assume that trial and error through the aeons have brought about a workable order based on natural phenomena.

Men interfere with this natural plan at their peril to do from time to time, they find have tried to do from time to time, they find themselves battling insects. They chop down trees and incur erosion and a dwindling water supply. They make it possible for children to grow up without discipline, then wonder where juvenile delinquency came from. They learn how to raise more food than they can safely eat and go on reducing diets to prolong their lives.

Tell the next victim of the common cold who staggers across your path that he should be grateful — then run, don't walk, to the nearest exit.

By Truman Twill

He, too, was rumored to have shuffled off and to be represented as still living, though long since dead, or at least long since moribund.

Now, more recently, Lord Moran, Sir Winston Churchill's personal physician, has been releasing pages from his diary in which he recorded the deterioration of "Mr. England," who knew in his last turn as prime minister that he no longer was capable of doing it but stubbornly refused to acknowledge his inadequacy. He, too, became a stuffed replica of himself.

Britain's open-government philosophy made it impossible to carry on such a hoax for long. Everybody covered up for Winnie, but finally his own party ended his career.

With Mao in Communist China, a hoax would be easy. No one knows anything about the inscrutable Chinese leaders, not even the Chinese themselves.

The Establishment could stuff Mao and get mileage out of him for years to come. They could continue to display his picture and quote his doctrine and no one would know the difference between the living and the dead. Look what the Russians did with Lenin.

The possibility of post-mortem leadership fascinates me. It should fascinate everybody.

Any time, an idea may take hold in high quarters. The powers that be may start stuffing idols and displaying them to us gillies and the gillies.

They have been doing it all the time — telling us what the dead no longer are able to say in their own behalf. Well, haven't they?

By Martin Miller

Some of the TV big shots are always bemoaning the death of live TV drama but I never heard a little common TV viewer ever squawk about it. Did you? I can't tell the difference. Can you, Twill?

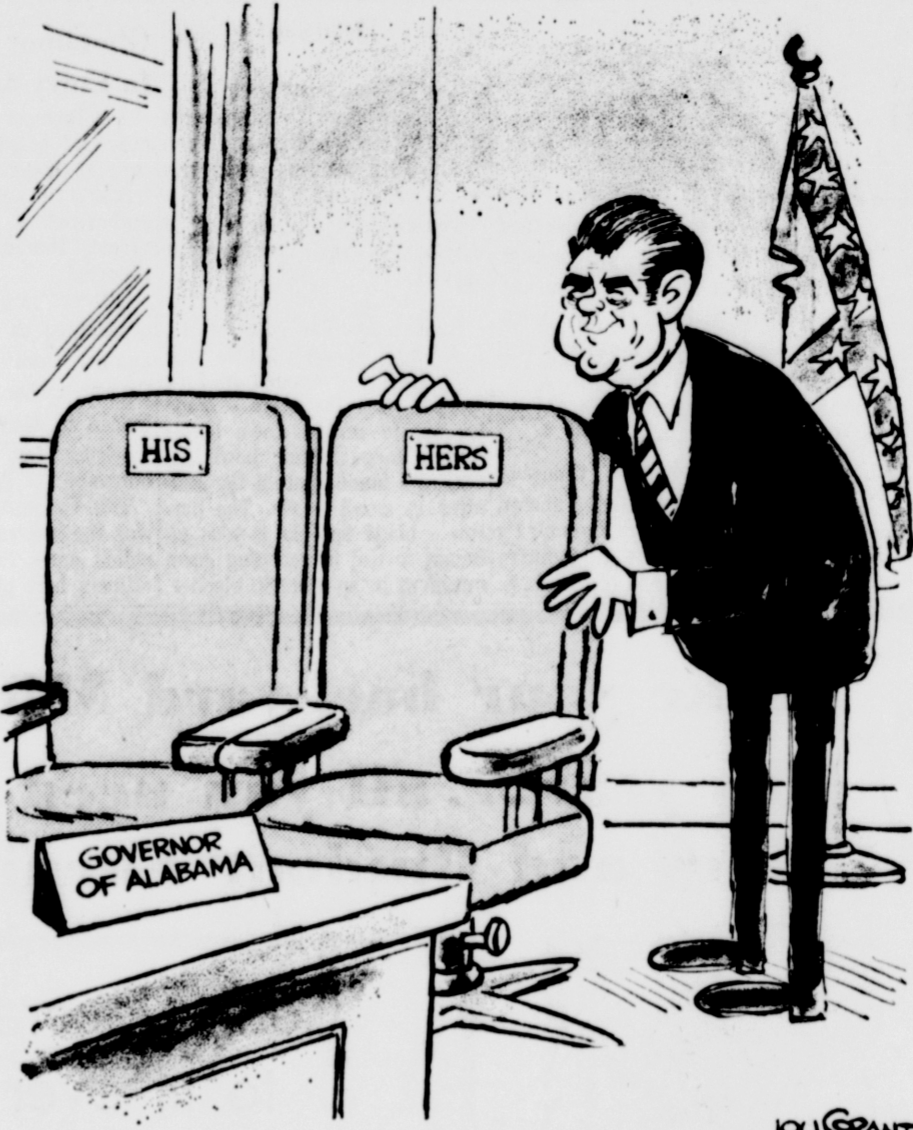

One of our TV stations has a regular travelogue show which is one of my favorites. It was a special treat a week or two ago to see movies of African and Indian animals presented by a Quentin Keynes, great-grandson of Charles Darwin. Keynes is somewhat of a scholar himself and was able to present some living illustrations of the Darwinian theory of natural selection.

When asked if he ever worried about bodily harm from some of the primitive people he photographed, he replied in what you call a clipped British accent, "No. My experience has been that the wilder the people are the more friendly they are. Much more so than some people I have met in other places. I dare say."

I never saw a UFO.
I never hope to see one.
But I can tell you anyhow
I'd rather see than be one.

Faithfully yours,

'I Think They Look Right Pretty'

CIA Studies Business, Labor

By Victor Riesel

A nation without a sophisticated intelligence service would be like chicken and rice without the chicken, the president of a large and progressive Latin-American country told this correspondent recently.

We had been discussing the activity of U.S. Central Intelligence Agency men and their study of labor activities in his land. He chuckled. He said he understood.

The CIA would be foolish if it did not analyze labor there — for throughout the world now the labor leader of yesterday is the prime minister or president of today. Or, if not actually the head of state, the labor man and his movement are the forces behind the chief executive.

Only in the United States is the endemic intelligence agency taken as a personal insult. The uproar against the CIA is damaging the young agency's efforts to train its people and weld them into a scientific force.

Just as the CIA has developed its labor contacts without interfering inside American labor, the agency now is training some of its men to understand the nature, the mechanism, the philosophy and motivations of American business.

SO ARE SUCH USUALLY utterly secretive organizations as the billion-dollar National Security Agency and others which must have knowledge of the scientific "magic" that modern industry can conjure up either for profits or patriotism.

Some of this is being done under the auspices of the recondite and erudite Brookings Institution.

It has developed an admirable pilot project, now exactly one year old, which brings bright federal executives into friendly but unsparing dialogue with the top men in American industry, commerce and banking.

Several times since last May the Brookings Institution has, in its gentle and unobtrusive fashion, put groups of 25 or 26 federal special-specialists "on the road," in what is called the "Conference for Federal Executives on Business Operations."

THE ORIGINAL ARRANGEMENT was made through John Macy, chairman of the Civil Service Commission.

A year ago the traveling team went right into the corporate executive suites and sat with David Rockefeller, of a bank called Chase Manhattan, and with Gerald Philippe, chairman of the board of General Electric and Leslie Worthington, president of U.S. Steel. There was fast, free and off-the-record discussion — frank talk, but friendly.

Among the 25 was a chap from Central Intelligence.

He was Alan M. Warfield, director of logistics, for the CIA. And he was as eager as the others in the traveling troupe to be exposed to business operations and philosophy.

He, too, wanted a better insight into the operations and problems of the major corporations as well as personal contact with the men who run them and whose corporate scientists are the brains of what our industrial civilization can produce — and what it takes to get such production.

During that first effort of the pilot project, Mr. Warfield and the rest of the group who, though from less romantic-sounding agencies, were no less vital to our government, swung on a circle out of Washington to New York and Pittsburgh.

THESE HAVE BEEN SEVERAL other such "dialogues." The most recent swing around the circle had new men going from the capital to New York and to Cleveland and back home.

This time with them were not only a CIA man, Martin McHugh, but two chaps from the much more hush-hush National Security Agency, foreign code smasher par excellence. There were men from NASA, AEC, from the Houston Manned Space Flight Center, as well as from the Food and Drug Administration.

It all resulted from business efforts to understand government executive problems. The businessmen would go to Washington under the Brookings Institution guidance. Someone suggested that government men might like to learn something of business executives' anguish. How do the business people feel about all this?

"We feel meetings like this," said the knowledgeable G.E. vice president, Virgil Day, "offer a wonderful opportunity to meet what President Johnson called 'the increasing need for honest dialogue between business and government.'"

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

As a very special day approaches, as it does each year, I think how many times I have meant to write this letter.

I don't propose to write everyone's sentiment for Mother's Day, but I am sure I feel no differently than most about that wonderful person we call mother.

Having lived all her life in the East Liverpool area and serving that community in many ways, Mrs. Faye (Ellis) Wright is a person known to many.

Often I have been embarrassed, on my trips home, at meeting her friends and having them tell me how she is always talking about me or the grandchildren. It may seem like a one-way street, especially when we neglect to write or phone or do some of the other little niceties that let her know we care.

Though she has her faults and weaknesses, as do we all, I am very proud of my favorite Sweet Adeline and grateful for all the wonderful things she has done through the years.

On the coming Mother's Day, I hope for her and mothers everywhere a most wonderful day and many more in the years to come.

CIA Disclosures Discussed

Newspaper articles were published recently purporting to reveal details of the system of espionage employed by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. However, well intended, if the purpose was to start a crusade in Congress to restrict intelligence operations, this cannot but in the long run damage the interests of the American people.

The Central Intelligence Agency is not authorized to carry on any espionage within this country or to handle internal security problems, as all of these are responsibilities of the FBI. The CIA confines its operations to foreign countries, where, of course, it is subject to local laws as well as the counter-measures of agents of other governments which are hostile to the United States.

Espionage is in many ways dishonorable but can be justified. A simple but far-reaching example, the secret acquisition of messages and the breaking of a Japanese code by agents of the United States in the years just prior to World War II enabled our armed forces to know in advance details of ship movements. This later played a vital role in naval engagements in the Pacific, particularly in the crucial battle of Midway, in which the Japanese fleet was defeated.

THE "COLD WAR" is not unlike a "hot war" in its risks to the safety of the American people. Information about the existence of missile bases in Cuba may have been acquired too slowly, but what was learned did have the effect of enabling the United States to protect itself in time.

The recently published articles were the result of an honest and conscientious reporting effort, though errors did creep in, especially in the inference conveyed that certain committees of Congress are "controlled" by the CIA. The purpose of the articles, it was asserted, was to fix responsibility and also to tighten control of the CIA by Congress.

For many years two committees in the House of Representatives and two in the Senate have been taken into the confidence of the CIA and have known about its methods of operation. The members could ask any questions they wished. If these committees, composed of loyal Americans, had felt that the CIA was doing something wrong, they could have long ago transmitted to the President their objections or could have demanded open inquiries and investigations.

ONE OF THE FUNDAMENTAL rules of intelligence work is to let as few people as possible know what is going on, so as to guard against leaks and the danger of infiltration or who are not alert to the tricks used by agents of other countries.

There would be risks, for instance, in opening up intelligence operations to the staffs of our embassies abroad or to a lot of officials in the State Department. Some might not withhold from foreign diplomats at social gatherings bits of information considered irrelevant but which might have significant value to the other side. The secretary of state, of course, is kept informed.

Mistakes naturally are made in espionage and other intelligence activities. So also are errors of judgment committed by generals in the heat of battle. Inefficiencies of the CIA can be discovered and remedied by responsible officials.

THE PRESIDENT of the United States is, after all, the commander-in-chief of the military forces and the boss of the intelligence system. He is the final judge as to whether a step that has been taken was or was not desirable. Corrective measures always can be applied.

Undoubtedly the Communists will have a field day when they read some of the published articles about the internal workings of the CIA. It's a tragic mistake to furnish them with this information.

The press of the United States has in two world wars maintained a "voluntary censorship." The same system ought to prevail during a "cold war," especially when it comes to deciding whether to disclose in print the secret methods used by the American government in trying to deal with enemy intrigue inside foreign countries. Whether carried on in Latin America, Europe, Africa or Asia, the plotting is against the United States.

Ohioville Council Urges Check On Sewer Drains

A move to eliminate sewage odors from the Meadowbrook area was discussed by Ohioville Council at a meeting Thursday night.

Authorities said odors are coming from drains into which septic tanks are apparently leaking.

Councilmen are asking residents of the Meadowbrook area to check their sewage tanks to determine if they are faulty.

The legislators said the borough will cooperate with the householders and will conduct dye tests to check the drains. Powdered dye is placed in a home's plumbing and the outside drains observed to see where the flow goes, they explained.

Anyone interested in such assistance may notify Borough Engineer Daniel Baker or sewage inspector Gelindo Magliani. Magliani was authorized to check a number of complaints elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. David Burton discussed the Meadowbrook problem with Councilmen.

In other action, Solicitor Sam Wilson was authorized to prepare an ordinance for the next meeting June 2 which would prohibit soliciting in the borough without a permit.

He also was requested to study the feasibility of having an ordinance on the control of disorderly conduct. Hearings on such violations are now held on the state regulation, in which the fines are turned over to the state. A local ordinance would provide fines for the borough.

George Gailey, chairman of the road committee, reported roads will be graded and oiled where needed when weather permits.

Mayor Elmer Gifford announced George Tarbuk has been named the seventh member of an industrial development and recreation facilities committee of the borough. Six were named earlier.

Council accepted the 1965 audit report as prepared by Auditor John Joseph. Bills totaling $1,815 were paid.

Mayor Gifford reported the police investigated 28 complaints and made six arrests for auto law violations in the past report period.

The mayor also announced a meeting of the police committee is being arranged to act on the possible appointment of a dog catcher for the borough.

19 Resolutions Filed For Union Meeting In July

Local unions have filed 19 resolutions to date for the 72nd annual convention that will open July 18 in Miami Beach, the International Brotherhood of Operative Pottery announced today.

Ten of the resolutions were proposed by Local 86 (warehousemen) in East Liverpool and four were filed by Local 33 (chinaware) at Beaver Falls. The others were filed by East Liverpool Locals 320, 321 and 9.

In publishing the text of the proposals, the IBOP said there has been no final determination by legal authorities or the union Executive Board on their constitutionality.

One proposal that has been presented each year is back in the hopper again. Local 9 proposed that international conventions be held only once in two years, rather than annually, in order to hold down on expenses.

The 1966 meeting will be held at the Carillon Hotel in Miami Beach. It is expected to be in session six days, concluding on July 23.

Wellsville Girl Hurt When 'Bike' Hits Dog

A Wellsville girl was injured when she was knocked from a motorbike after hitting a dog about 6:30 p.m. Thursday at 9th and Center Sts., Wellsville.

Gretchen Nicholson, daughter of Thomas Nicholson of 500 Washington St., Wellsville, was treated at City Hospital for abrasions of the left forearm, left knee and foot.

She said a dog ran in front of her and the bike upset when the animal was hit.

Police were notified of the incident.

and Van Nuys, Calif. and GM assembly units in Atlanta and South Gaie, Calif., were on short work time this week.

Later in the day, the list was expanded to include four New York plants.

About 700 Chevrolet workers were idled yesterday at Tonawanda, N.Y., and told not to report for work today. The workers, all Corvair assembly-line workers, were told they would be idle the same days next week.

GM's Harrison Radiator Division said there would be partial shutdown today in its Lockport and Buffalo, N.Y., plants. The number of workers affected was not disclosed.

The firm's Delco Products Division said 2,500 of the Rochester, N.Y., plant's 4,300 workers would be idled May 13.

Announcement of GM's cutbacks was listed as one of the reasons for a drop in the New York stock market Thursday. GM fell to $88, a low for the year.

Figures released by GM indicated the firm sold 404,407 new cars in April, a drop of 15,820 from totals for April 1965. Corvair sales accounted for most of this decline, dropping 11,861 to 7,903.

Industry sources generally were reluctant, however, to blame the auto safety hearings for sales decline. They noted that sales in the 1965 month were unusually high because of consumer demand built up during the auto strikes of late 1964.

Total sales for the four companies during April were 761,606, behind the 799,102 total of April 1965.

Varied Activities Mark Meeting At Lawrenceville

Seven firemen attended the meeting of the Lawrenceville volunteer department Thursday night at the station, with Ed Oliver, vice president, presiding in the absence of Jack Stover, president.

Chief George McDole reported on recent department runs made in the area.

Okey Leasure, assistant captain, presented a demonstration on emergency air masks.

Richard Wyke was reinstated as a regular member following his return to Lawrenceville.

First nominations for officers were heard. Second nominations will be heard May 19, with the election June 2.

McDole announced that he has alerted the Hancock County sheriff's office relative to speeders in the area and emphasized the danger to children waiting for buses.

Orville Leasure, assistant chief, will present a resuscitation demonstration during the next meeting May 19.

Glenmoor Carnival Plans Are Advanced

Plans for the carnival June 6-11 were advanced during a meeting of the Glenmoor Firemen's Association Thursday night at the station.

George Hamilton, president, announced donations are being received on the department's "50-cent-a-month club."

Get-well cars were signed for two men. The next meeting will be May 19.

Little-Known, Unpaid Force

Cabbies In Major Cities Serving As 'Detectives'

NEW YORK (AP) — Taxicab drivers in major American cities serve as a little-known, unpaid detective force on the alert against crime around the clock, a survey indicated today.

Spokesmen for taxicab companies expressed some surprise at a congressional resolution by Rep. Richard C. White, D-Tex., urging the enlistment of taxi drivers and dispatchers in the fight against lawbreakers.

O.W. Wilson, superintendent of the Chicago police department, said hundreds of drivers with radio-telephone equipment have taken part during the past two years in a campaign called "Operation Crime Stop."

The Chicago drivers report not only crimes but road accidents.

Maj. Forrest Garrison of the Kansas City, Mo., police staff services division said a program enlisted cabbies and truck drivers in anticrime activities has been in effect since 1964.

"It looks like the federal government is far behind as far as we are concerned," he said. He said he was sending Rep. White a letter outlining the Kansas City operation, which includes direct telephone links to advise taxicab, trucking and public utility companies of crime alerts.

"We've been helping the police right along," said Tom Rickhard, secretary-treasurer of a Detroit cab company. "It works both ways — the police help us and we help them. If our drivers see anything suspicious they grab their radio mikes and report it."

Capt. Frank Dyson of the Dallas, Tex., police department said "some of our cases have stood up in court only because of a (taxi) driver's report and later testimony."

Rex Taylor, president of a cab company operating in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Oakland, Calif., said:

"I don't see where we need a new law. Everything is fine as it is. Cab drivers are very cooperative in aiding police in the prevention of crime. It might help if we had a stronger law against holding up cab drivers."

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices continued to fall in heavy trading early today. Some of the more speculative issues lost several dollars a share.

HANCOCK COUNTY ELECT SILAS "SI" BOLEY

An experienced non-partisan candidate for the Hancock County School Board.

I have had 18 years experience as a member of the Board of Education of Hancock County, from 1941 through 1958. I served as President of the Board for two (2) terms, 1951 - 53 and 1955 - 57.

While still serving on the Board, extensive plans were being made to have a survey made of our schools in order to plan for the future growth of our school system? I helped on the formation of the school program now in effect.

I had an important part in the increasing of salaries of Teachers and of non-teaching personnel.

SOME OF THE IMPROVEMENTS MADE DURING MY YEARS ON THE BOARD WERE:

1. Elimination of several portable schoolhouses; also the rural one-room schools.
2. 6 rooms added to the N. Cumberland School, and the erection of an auditorium and gymnasium.
3. A 14-room school at Pughtown.

Official Vote Canvass May End On Saturday

The County Election Board's staff said today it expects to complete work Saturday on the official canvass of returns from the primary elections Tuesday.

Under way since Thursday morning, the official tabulation still will not be complete when work ends late this afternoon or tonight, the staff said. When complete, the figures will be certified to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown at Columbus.

The outcome of the official canvass may determine if a recount will be asked in the race for a Democratic county commissioner's nomination in which Robert Owen of East Liverpool apparently defeated Lew Sowards of near Lisbon by a 32-vote margin. If he contemplates a recount, Sowards must wait until after certification of the official count to file his application.

Party Leader In Viet Fears Fake Election

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A leader of one of South Viet Nam's major nationalist parties said today elections in the country will have no meaning unless two thirds of the people are able to vote freely.

He estimated that only about one fifth could do this at present.

Ha Thuc Ky, secretary-general of a faction of the Dai Viet party and no relation to Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, said that the elections promised by the military government could be held only in cities and towns under present conditions.

"The peasants and farmers could not vote," Ky said in an interview. "These would not be true elections. They would be a fake."

"The Viet Cong are cunning and might even stop fighting in some areas to make them appear secure, then infiltrate for the voting."

He suggested at least six months for organizing elections and an interim civilian government to serve during the period.

As now planned by the government, Ky said, the elections "will only be a show to satisfy the foreigners. It will not be representative of the people."

Ky, 47, a forestry engineer who served briefly as interior minister in 1964, also predicted that the voting promised by the military junta in the fall would produce a Buddhist-controlled National Assembly.

"The Buddhists want to oust the Americans and leave this country to neutralism," he said.

Ky spent five years in prison for political activity under the regime of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem. He said the Dai Viet party is not organized on regional or religious lines.

'Junk' Fixed, Put Into Use, Agency Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shunned as junk by the Pentagon, discarded military equipment has been repaired and put to work around the world by the U.S. foreign aid agency.

"It might have been junk when we got it," an official of the Agency for International Development (AID) said today, "but it wasn't junk when we supplied it to other countries."

Under Pentagon fire, a Senate subcommittee on foreign aid expenditures resumes today its public inquiry into the discard of used military equipment overseas.

Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, the chairman, contends the Defense Department is giving away used but serviceable equipment — like cranes, tractors and bulldozers — desperately needed by American forces in South Viet Nam.

President And Wife In Texas For Weekend

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson hoped today for a turn for better weather in this water-logged central Texas hill country as he swung into a long weekend at his ranch.

Johnson, who flew to Texas Thursday from Washington with wife Lady Bird, announced before he came that he wanted some sunshine. However, it has been a soggy spring for this sometimes-parched territory. A light drizzle fell as he arrived by jet here and transferred to a smaller jet-powered plane for the 60-mile hop northward to the LBJ Ranch near Johnson City.

Johnson is expected to announce a number of appointments to top government posts while in Texas.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Our son is 3 years old and I'm worried about him.

When Kurt was born his father made it plain that he was going to raise his son to be a man and not a pansy. My husband feels that boys should not be cuddled or kissed or shown any affection. When Kurt falls down and cries my husband ignores him and makes me do the same. Even when the child is sick I'm not permitted to rock him.

Last week Kurt had a cold but his father insisted that I give him a cold bath as usual and not pamper him. He got a chill and his cold nearly developed into pneumonia.

I believe in discipline but I think my husband is carrying things too far. Kurt stutters when he speaks to his father and I'm sure he is terrified of him. My husband reads your column and agrees with some of the things you say. It would help a great deal if you published my letter and gave us your opinion.—KURT'S MOTHER.

Dear Mother: Ask your doctor to talk to your husband at once. If something isn't done to change your husband's thinking, you are going to have a seriously disturbed boy on your hands.

Every child needs affection. Cuddling and gentleness does not make boys queer. Harshness, rigidity and an absence of father love can drive male children to identify with their mothers — and this can cause homosexuality.

Well, both women like me and said I got along with their children better than anyone they had ever hired. They called me back regularly after that.

Now Gloria is mad because she says I "stole her job." Do you feel I should have turned the ladies down?—SHORT ONE FRIEND.

Dear Short: Well — here we go again? I don't feel that you should have turned the ladies down, but it would have been a good idea to suggest that they call Gloria and give her first call on the subsequent jobs. Having done that you would have discharged your responsibility to Gloria.

Confidentially

TO WANT TO HELP AN EX-CON FIND HIS WAY: Write to Michael L. Shepp, president of Con's Way Unlimited, P.O. Box 6351, Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. Shepp, a former convict himself, seeks to rehabilitate ex-cons by finding them jobs. He will put you in touch with men who want to stand on their own two feet and earn an honest dollar.

Baby-Sitters

Dear Ann: Since that letter from your daughter Margo appeared (she disagreed with your stand on sitters), I'll bet you've had all the sitters letters, pro and con, that you care to see for the next 100 years. I do hope you will print just one more, however.

My girl friend, Gloria, and I both sit for women in the neighborhood. Gloria grew up here and she knows more people than I do. On two occasions last winter Gloria called me and asked if I wanted to sit for a couple of women who were in a spot.

They had called her but she was booked. I was free and said, "Yes, thanks a lot."

Advisory Council's Report On Education To Be Released

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first official evaluation of the government's big push to enrich the education of some 7 million slum children is on President Johnson's desk and may be released this weekend.

The report is by a special advisory council named by the President to keep tabs on the billion-dollar program. The 12-member council is composed largely of top ranking education experts from outside the government, but include a labor leader and others.

Sources in the U.S. Office of Education, which administers the program for disadvantaged children, said they expect the report to generally endorse what has been done since it got under way last fall. This is what has been done:

Nearly 18,500 individual projects in every state have been approved. Price tag: $927,334,821. In addition, 3,480 more projects still are being processed and if approved will bring the total cost to more than $1 billion. The cutoff date for submitting the projects to the Office of Education was last Monday.

The projects are initiated by local educational agencies under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, by far the biggest part of the broad-ranging act.

All projects must be approved by state education authorities before they are submitted to Washington. They include a wide range of ideas — preschool programs, summer camps, field trips, guidance and counseling, psychological help — all aimed at helping disadvantaged children get over the educational hurdles imposed by their slum environments, both city and rural.

Ceremonies Set Saturday At Lock

Ceremonies marking the replacement of a stone identification plate will be held Saturday, beginning at 2 p.m., at the old Lusk Lock site, southeast of Elkhart.

The original identification stone was lost some 50 years ago, but a duplicate recently was fitted into place by Robert Kelm, president of the Columbiana County Historical Association. The legend was engraved by the T. A. Richardson & Sons Monument Co. of Lisbon.

The lock, considered the finest of its kind upon completion in 1836, is located in a valley on the middle fork of the Little Beaver Creek on the old Sandy and Beaver Canal.

William H. Vodrey Jr. of East Liverpool, president of the Ohio Historical Society, will speak during the ceremonies.

Government Files Suit In Alabama Vote

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — The Justice Department has charged that nearly 1,700 Negro voters were disqualified improperly in Tuesday's Democratic primary to assure a victory for Sheriff James G. Clark, in Dallas County.

In a suit filed in U.S. District Court at Mobile Thursday, the federal government asks that Clark's opponent, Wilson Baker, be declared the winner.

Baker, the city's public safety director, is a racial moderate while Clark is known for his segregationist views.

The government suit seeks to overturn the action of the county's Democratic Election Committee, which supports Clark's contention that ballots in six of the county's 80 voting precincts were handled improperly. It asks for a preliminary injunction to prevent the disputed ballots from being destroyed.

If the predominantly Negro votes are counted, then Baker would win the primary by a clear majority, thus avoiding a May 31 runoff election for the party's nomination for sheriff.

In stepping into the dispute, the Justice Department used authority under the 1965 Voting Rights Act which itself stemmed from last year's violent demonstrations here.

Baker often disagreed with Clark on the handling of the demonstrations, which led to the arrest of thousands of Negroes.

In a secret session late Thursday the committee huddled in the Dallas County courtroom, counted the paper ballots from the six boxes and announced that it had found too many irregularities and that a runoff must be held.

Casey Says He'd Form Consumer Protection Unit

READING, Pa. (AP) — State Sen. Robert P. Casey, Democratic gubernatorial aspirant, says, if elected governor, he will create a bureau of consumer protection to give the public a voice in protesting price increases.

Speaking at a Democratic rally Thursday, Casey said Pennsylvania's consumers "will have a loud and clear voice" in his administration.

He said his proposed bureau would be on an equal par with the agencies granting price increases.

He cited recent increases in auto insurance rates as "the latest example of the public being shunted aside without a proper voice in protesting such increases."

India has increased its overall agriculture production 60 per cent since 1951 and fertilizer output by nearly 200 per cent.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY
Is 'Dreadful' Bad?

The men responsible for today's TV programs keep reminding what sometimes nostalgically is referred to as the medium's "Golden Age," which was its "live" drama period during the '50s. John Schneider, vice president in charge of almost everything at CBS, recently used the adjective "dreadful" to describe that era in TV.

Those of us who remember the "Golden Age" with respect and longing are told by Madison Avenue's soap sellers that our memories are playing tricks on us.

"WE REALLY DIDN'T" enjoy "Playhouse 90" or "TV Playhouse," they tell us now. Some of us, in fact, are accused of killing off these drama series with our harsh reviews and general lack of support.

About the only way I know to take the measure of a past period in our culture is to re-examine the impact it made on the cultural scale at the time. When I saw the 1957 movie, "Twelve Angry Men," on a Hollywood channel recently, I was reminded that Reginald Rose wrote it first for "Studio 1" in 1954.

This led me to jotting down, just from memory, those dramas which premiered on TV then were bought and produced as movies. There were "Bachelor Party," "Marty" and "Valter Affair" — all written by Paddy Chayefsky.

"Requiem for a Heavyweight," "Days of Wine and Roses," "Judgment at Nuremberg" and "Patterns" all went from TV to movies. "Middle of the Night," another Chayefsky TV play, was to become a Broadway hit, as did Gore Vidal's "Bisit to a Small Planet."

WILLIAM GIBSON'S "The Miracle Worker" became both a play and a movie, and there have been others. I'm sure. There was a kidnap thriller with Ralph Bellamy which I can't recall by title that became a movie.

A fairly impressive list, wouldn't you say? And not only did Broadway and Hollywood find TV a lush story source in those days, but they ultimately lured the writers, directors and producers of those dramas away from TV with more money and the promise their work would not be blue-penciled by some ad agency whose sponsor preferred the words "gas ovens" be deleted from "Judgment at Nuremberg."

Since the advent of "Bonanza," "Ben Casey" and "The Nurses" there have been no such raids on TV by the movies or Broadway. An exception or two exists, I suppose, such as "The Man From U.N.C.L.E.," movie, which, by the way, was turned down by one major theater chain.

ANOTHER TEST to be applied in comparing the '50s with the '60s in TV is what I call the morning-after test.

When "Playhouse 90" and "Studio 1" were on TV they usually were the subject of discussion among commuters and neighbors the next day.

Even when these drama series missed the mark, which they did frequently, they still engendered conversation afterward — sometimes for several days.

How much of this kind of talk about TV does one hear today except for an occasional "Hey, have you seen that 'Batman' thing?" or "Who was that comic on Sullivan's show last night?" — "I dunno, my set's been on the blink for a couple of months."

If most of us had to prove an alibi to the police by recounting the plots of the TV shows we saw while supposedly sitting in our living rooms the night before, we'd face a jail sentence for perjury at least.

I WATCHED "Dr. Kildare," "F Troop" and "Petticoat Junction" on a recent Tuesday and forgot what they were about by the time I got to "The Fugitive" the same evening.

Those dramas by the Rod Serlings, Paddy Chayefsky, Gore Vidal and others may have been "dreadful" as CBS' Schneider insists, but it was the kind of dreadful I, and I'm sure many others, could remember and were stirred by emotionally, one way or another.

One might suppose that a sponsor (and a network) would rather have 20 million people who could remember their show the next day than 40 million who weren't sure what they had seen, but of course if the game is just to count bodies, then it's no contest.

Kilmer Honored By Publication At City Hospital

A recent issue of a publication distributed at City Hospital was dedicated to George Kilmer, an employee of the hospital who at the time was confined as a patient.

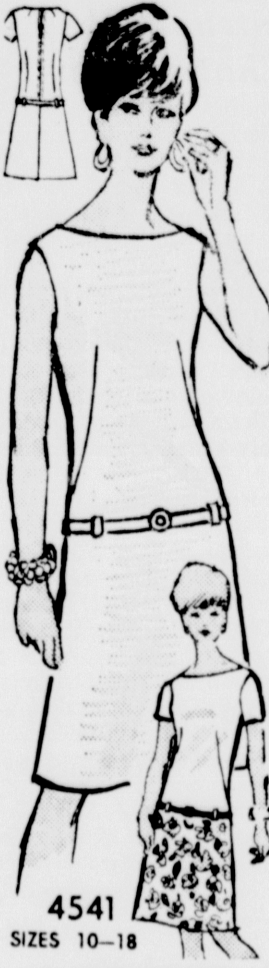

Among other kind words, the publication included this comment from his fellow workers: "We have never heard him speak ill of any of his fellow men. He belongs to a generation that is rapidly passing into oblivion—the era of the true gentleman."

George, who is noted for his charitable work with children and the elderly, has practiced this philosophy as a member of the Loyal Order of Moose, which he has served for many years. He is the only "Pilgrim" No. 122 ever to come from East Liverpool.

He has worked at the hospital the last six years and as a "senior citizen" has more or less grown with the community, witnessing many changes over the years.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Domestic Help Should Be Respected

It's growing harder and harder to secure domestic helpers in homes. Harder, as a rule, where there are children than where there are not. Home helpers might, as a rule, be paid more than they are, but most women would rather work elsewhere at less pay than as domestic help.

Dr. Garry Myers. Though being a domestic helper often is hard work, this is rarely the reason domestic helping is growing less attractive. Too often this kind of work carries with it low personal dignity.

The very word "servant" or "maid" has come down with unsavory association in the mind of many home helpers and those they help. Where there are children in the family, they don't always feel and act toward the home helper with dignity.

SOME PARENTS sensing this problem avoid reference to the helping persons as a maid. They call her the home helper. In the presence of the child these parents address her or talk of her as a precious person—"Mrs. Moore" or "Miss Corrigan," and they train their children to address her and refer to her in a like manner.

Here are some lines for children I have written with conviction:

"A Home Helper"
I wish the person who is paid
To help my mother
Were not called a maid.
Instead, I wish she were Called, a home helper.
Here's the reason why —
She's a precious person
Just as you and I.
There's something in a name,
Maid and helper
Do not mean the same
When I help you
Or you help me
"Helper" carries dignity.

WE PARENTS who have growing children in the home need to consider ways of teaching them to be respectful of all persons who help in and about the home. From the time they are big enough to wait on themselves, let us teach our children constantly to be thoughtful of any domestic helper, to take care of their own things and to cause her no unnecessary work or trouble. It's the attitude and ways they see in us, their parents, which, obviously, are important.

While we want our children to be considerate and respectful toward this helper as a matter of her dignity and rights, we also have a bigger reason — the character growth of our children themselves.

How these children learn by precept and example to be considerate now of our home helper is a pattern of how they, by and by, will treat the home helper when they grow up and have homes of their own.

Viet Labor Unions Demand Action On Red Infiltration

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Saigon's labor unions today demanded a government crackdown on Communist infiltration of their ranks. They also warned of increasing political penetration of the capital by Viet Cong agents.

The new chief of the nation's security apparatus, Gen. Linh Quang Vien, was reported planning a vast campaign to flush out known Communists in Saigon and other urban centers. Informed sources said he hopes to carry it out in several weeks after a reorganization of metropolitan police.

The union demands, expressed in petitions, letters and personal pleas, coincided with what authorities describe as "increasing boldness" of the Viet Cong in Saigon.

According to the authorities, known Viet Cong agents have been openly agitating among students, workers and in teeming refugee settlements ringing the capital.

Anti-American demonstrations on May 1, Communist-inspired at least to some degree, were tolerated by the security apparatus.

"There is no doubt we are seeing a crisis of authority in Saigon," one official said.

The Viet Cong seemed to be preparing for a major political offensive to coincide with plans for general elections.

A 32-man special committee charged with preparing the general elections went ahead with its work to make recommendations on voter eligibility and electoral districts.

The government issued a formal decree specifying the committee's task. The decree followed threats by a number of committee members that they will not work until their situation is "legalized."

The committee is expected to terminate its draft project this month. From then on, authorities estimated that at least 100 days will be necessary to put into motion an electoral apparatus.

Peking Admits Antiparty Elements Peril Regime

TOKYO (AP) — Peking is stepping up a campaign against "antiparty" elements which the Red regime admits are threatening its existence.

In an extraordinary move, the Chinese government has disclosed that rebellious groups which seek its overthrow now exist, not only among intellectuals, but in youth groups, the army and even in the Communist party itself.

The existence of these wayward elements was made clear this week in a series of officially approved articles, editorials and directives.

The Red Chinese leaders admit that the enemies of the 17-year-old regime "are generally 'authorities' and enjoy a certain 'reputation' — a sign that they may include high-ranking Communists."

The disclosures of these opponents came after the publication of an abject confession by Kuo Mo-jo, winner of a Lenin prize and the acknowledged leader of the country's culture.

The unusual admissions could be the prelude to a purge of "rightists" far deeper than that of 1957. The Liberation Army Daily, Red China's Army paper, said on Wednesday: "The current great struggle is being carried to greater depths."

Cause of the fire was not determined and no estimate of the damage was available.

Boy With Cancer Smiling Again; Has New Puppy

CLEVELAND (AP)—Billy Adkins stretched his arms and smiled for the first time in three weeks.

Then he picked up his new puppy and cried "I'm going to call it Cookie."

Billy, 12, has cancer. His constant playmate since he had to withdraw from school two years ago was a boxer-bulldog named Cookie. But the dog wandered away about three weeks ago and hasn't returned.

Billy was despondent. He wasn't able to accept another dog—until Thursday.

A suburban Lakewood housewife, who prefers anonymity, brought Billy a 6-week-old male puppy. Now Billy is smiling again.

Billy hasn't let the dog leave his side, said his mother, Mrs. Alvis Adkins. "They even took a nap together," she said.

Billy didn't want to accept the new dog at first, said Mrs. Adkins. But the brown ball of fur with a black nose won the boy's heart.

Mrs. Adkins said she tried to convince Billy that he would have to find a new name for the dog because "Cookie" is a girl's name.

So far she hasn't had much luck.

Luster To Golden Triangle

Major Facelifting Job Scheduled For Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The city of Pittsburgh, recognized in some quarters as the nation's showpiece in urban renewal through self-help, is going to get a major facelifting that will add luster to its famed Golden Triangle.

The Pennsylvania Railroad announced plans Thursday night that will wipe out 40 square blocks of old office buildings, truck terminals, warehouses and wholesale produce buildings which sprawl haphazardly some nine city blocks along the Allegheny River.

Replacing the buildings will be modern, streamlined office and high-rise apartment buildings complemented by wide thoroughfares, gardens, lawns, woodlands and parks.

The project will cover 148 acres—six times larger than Pittsburgh's first renewal program, the Gateway Center.

As with Pittsburgh's renaissance project, the PRR's proposal—to be called Penn Park—is a joint effort of private enterprise, local government and community leaders.

No price tag was placed on the project; nor was any timetable announced.

Stuart T. Saunders, PRR board chairman, said, "I serve notice this evening that we are open for business. The PRR owns 80 per cent of the land and has acquired the remainder. "The Pennsylvania or others acting for it will seek subdevel-

Officers Blame Intruders In City Church Damage

Intruders were blamed for damage to the interior of the First Methodist Church on W. 5th St. Thursday night or early this morning, but apparently nothing was taken, police reported.

The burglars gained entrance sometime between 9 p. m. yesterday and 7 this morning by forcing a cellar door on the southwest side of the building, officers said. Two locked doors were forced in the cellar before the intruders went to the main floor of the structure.

The burglars entered the study of the Rev. Allen Conway, minister, and a room used by the church secretary-treasurer, officers said. Two 5½-x-14-inch windows were broken on the main floor. The intruders apparently left by unlocking a door on the north side.

Would-be intruders also damaged a door at the dental office building of Dr. J. J. Hoffrichter at 501 Jefferson St. between 11:30 p. m. Thursday and 8:30 a. m. today, but failed to gain entry, police said.

Reports Feature Monthly Meeting Of Credit Union

Various reports highlighted the monthly meeting of the City Employees Credit Union Thursday afternoon in the Council chamber at City Hall.

Auditor Lawrence J. Zollinger, president, reported a drive for new members is continuing, with one enrolled in April for a total of 50. However, the group has a potential membership of 150, he added. Membership applications are available at the auditor's office.

Mrs. Elizabeth Oliver, treasurer, gave a report. Francis Wise, chairman of the loan committee, said two new loans were granted during April. A report on the quarterly audit was presented by the supervisory committee comprised of D. G. Wilkinson, chairman, Jack Bonner and Rodney Stull. Wilkinson complimented Mrs. Oliver on her work as treasurer. The next meeting will be Thursday, June 9, at 3:45 p. m. in the Council chamber.

Kroger Co. Reports Sales Increase Of 7%

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Kroger Co., supermarket chain, reported Thursday sales of $206,563,453 for the four weeks ended April 26, an increase of 7 per cent over sales of $193,177,883 for the comparable period last year.

Cumulative sales for the first four-week periods of 1966 were $803,400,393, also a 7 per cent increase over sales of $751,947,938 for the same period in 1965.

OEA Says Public Schools 'Drubbed' On Bond Issues

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—South Western City School District in Franklin County which lost a 4.25-mill levy, said further that "Many people are under the mistaken impression that the state and federal government are going to bear the burden of school costs."

"Nothing could be further from the truth," Hayes continued. "Local communities will continue to bear the major burden of school financing and the quality of education in any particular community will continue to depend upon local citizen support."

The OEA's research division says 176 of 254 school issues passed at Tuesday's election, but the Ohio Education Association in reporting this says the rate of defeats constituted a "drubbing" for the public schools.

The OEA's research division says 125 of 177 levies submitted, 70.6 per cent, and 51 of 77 bond issue proposals, 66.2 per cent, were approved.

In the 1964 primary, passage percentages were 73.4 on tax levies and 71.4 on bond issues. OEA President Paul Hayes blamed voter resistance to school support partially on the "uncertainty among many citizens of the current status of educational financing in Ohio."

Bids Are Studied By Water Board

The Board of Public Utilities, which administers the water department, took under advisement Thursday afternoon a long list of bids received on a year's supply of chemicals, meters, pipe and other items.

Most of the offers covered chemicals for use in water purification — 250 tons each of hydrate or pebble lime and aluminum sulphate; 50 tons of activated charcoal; 18,000 pounds of liquid chlorine, and 5,000 pounds of sodium chlorite.

THE BOARD also received offers on 6,000 feet of cast iron pipe, 100 water meters and 200 tons of dry mixed sand and cement mixture for a continuing program for maintenance of reservoir walls.

Four companies submitted identical bids on the chlorine. Each quoted prices of $9 per 100 pounds for the material in 150-pound cylinders and $6 per 100 pounds in 2,000-pound containers. The bidders were Opalco Laboratories, Inc., of McKeesport, Chemply, Inc., of Pittsburgh, the Fred J. Durner Chemical Co., also of Pittsburgh, and the McKesson-Robbins Co. of McKeesport.

Three of the same firms, plus two others, filed offers on the aluminum sulphate.

Opalco Laboratories offered the material at $2.63 per 100 pounds in 100-pound bags. Chemply bid $5.45 per ton, also in 100-pound bags. McKesson-Robbins quoted two prices — $56.47 per ton in 100-pound bags by truckload lots and $52.77 per ton in 100-pound bags in railroad car lots.

ALSO BIDDING on the same chemical were the Allied Chemical Co. of Morristown, N. J., and the American Cyanamid Co. of Chicago.

Allied Chemical quoted a price of $2.69 per 100 pounds, delivered in truckload lots. The other firm's prices were $59.65 per ton, delivered in 100-pound bags in truckload lots, and $53.25 per ton in 100-pound bags, delivered in railroad car lots.

Opalco Laboratories filed the only bid on sodium chlorite. It quoted a price of $63 per 100 pounds in 100-pound drums.

Standard Lime & Refractories Co. of Baltimore submitted the lone bid on hydrate lime. It offered the material at $21.40 per net ton, delivered prepaid in 50-pound bags. The same material would cost $22.40 per net ton delivered in 80-pound bags, it said.

The only offer on charcoal was filed by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co. of New York City. It quoted a price of $159.54 per ton, delivered in 35-pound bags.

Two firms filed bids on the sand and cement fixtures, quoting varying prices for mixtures in different ratios—1-2, 1-3, 1-4 and 1-5.

The Milliron Co. of East Liverpool quoted these prices: 1-2 mix, $24.33 per ton; 1-3 mixture, $22.83 per ton; 1-4 mixture, $21.43 a ton, and 1-5 ratio, $20.83 per ton. The prices include delivery by truck to the job site, it said.

The other offer was filed by the Burrell Construction & Supply Co. of New Kensington, Pa. Its prices were: 1-2 mixture, $34 per cent.

3-Way Crash Injures Man

A West End man suffered a fractured nose Thursday in a collision on Broadway at E. Church Ln. that involved two autos and a school bus, police reported.

Frank B. Gardner, 36, of 225 W. 8th St. was released after treatment at City Hospital.

Police said the mishap involved Gardner's 1963 model station wagon, another 1963 station wagon operated by Ronald K. Mason, 43, of Harding Ave. and a school bus owned by the Board of Education and driven by Cyrus A. Shaffer, 51, of 2080 Lisbon St.

All three vehicles were headed south on Broadway when Gardner's foot slipped off the brake pedal, causing his station wagon to hit the rear of Mason's, police said. The Mason station wagon then struck the rear of the school bus, officers said.

The collision damaged the front of Gardner's auto; both the front and rear of the other station wagon, owned by the Mason Color & Chemical Works, Inc., of Broadway, and the rear of the school bus.

Gardner estimated his speed at 10 to 15 miles an hour and Mason said his vehicle was moving 5 to 10 miles an hour.

Gardner was fined $15 and costs today in Municipal Court on a charge of failure to stop in the assured clear distance. He pleaded "no contest."

Patrolman Paul A. Burson investigated.

Ravenna Arsenal Phase Out Topic Of Discussion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army officials met with a group of Ohioans here Thursday to discuss a phase out of ammunition on 3,000 acres of the Ravenna, Ohio, arsenal.

Ohio is seeking the land for industrial development, and Rep. J. William Stanton, R-Ohio, led a group from his state to the talks. He said after the meeting that the Army is willing to release immediately that portion of the area containing no storage igloos and to work out a phase out schedule, moving ammunition gradually as further acreage is needed for industrial use.

Earlier, Ohio was told it would cost the state $6 million to move the ammunition from Ohio to a Pennsylvania arsenal.

Now, Stanton said, details of this plan involved in the initial release, will be discussed between officials of the Ohio Development Department and the Army Material Command in meetings starting possibly next week.

Scranton Signs Mining Compact

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Pennsylvania is the second state to approve an interstate mining compact designed to provide coordinated conservation practices.

Gov. William Scranton signed a bill Thursday authorizing the state to enter into the agreement. Kentucky was first to approve the compact.

H. Beecher Charnbury, state secretary of mines and mineral industries, said five other states were represented on the special committee that laid the groundwork for the compact legislation.

Of the five, he said, Maryland has introduced legislation similar to that enacted by Pennsylvania and Kentucky. West Virginia rejected the compact, he added, and Ohio's position is not known.

Scranton said the proposed compact would establish sound conservation practices and at the same time insure a healthy mining industry.

BENDHEIM'S

EAST SIXTH STREET

76 YEARS IN EAST LIVERPOOL

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise; my blouses and my husband's shirts launder beautifully with the exception of the collars . . . where that soil line persists, despite all my efforts.

Please help me.

MARY

These lines are caused by body oils. Get rid of the oil, and the dirt will leave!

Go to your dime store and buy a box of white chalk (the kind children use on blackboards), and literally "draw" a chalk line over that yellow line on your blouses and your husband's collars and French cuffs. Draw it hard.

The chalk will absorb the body oils (far better to leave it overnight), and the dirt will leave.

Wash as usual — whether it be at home or sent to the laundry! If the line has been there a long time, it may take more than one application.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Did you ever try grating a cucumber, pressing out the juice, and using the juice to mix with the dressing for a tossed salad?

Those who can't eat the cucumber itself will enjoy this.

It's delicious.

POLLY JENKINS.

DEAR HELOISE: At a feed store I purchase a sack of salt — not rock or very coarse salt — just plain ordinary salt.

I put a good coating of it in a NARROW stream around all of my sidewalks and fences, and it isn't long before the grass turns yellow and dies.

I pride myself on my well-kept lawn, and much credit is given to our salt treatment. I have used this method with success for years and there is no danger of poisoning anyone or any pets.

MRS. HERMAN MILLER.

And ladies and gentlemen of the jury—it works, too!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: To serve

food to members of the family when they are sick in bed, we made a bib about 15 by 20 inches. The corners are rounded, and the strings are about 18 inches long, to tie around the neck.

The bib is long enough to tuck under the dishes on the tray.

Sure saves lots of spills and clean-ups.

MARJORIE BROWN.

DEAR HELOISE: To the mother who warms her baby food in her muffin pan. . .

If she will use paper muffin liners in each section, she won't even have one pan to wash!

They cost only about 15 cents for a package of 85 — which probably is cheaper than the soap would be!

MRS. S. E. ROBERSON.

DEAR HELOISE: I have a tip for mothers of small girls. The other day my 5-year-old was playing with an air pump and got several grease spots on her dress, which would not come out.

I ironed transfers of puppies and a kitty over the grease spots, then painted them with textile paints.

Presto, a like-new dress for school.

JOYCE DYER.

DEAR HELOISE: Make a scrap book for your toddler of colorful pictures of familiar things — one to each page. For example, a mother holding a baby, a car like your own, etc.

He can "read" it himself and enjoy it that much more.

CLARE L. WILSON.

DEAR HELOISE: For women who wear colored kid shoes, and accidentally nick the toe, use a child's wax crayon of matching color and mark the damaged spot, then rub with a tissue.

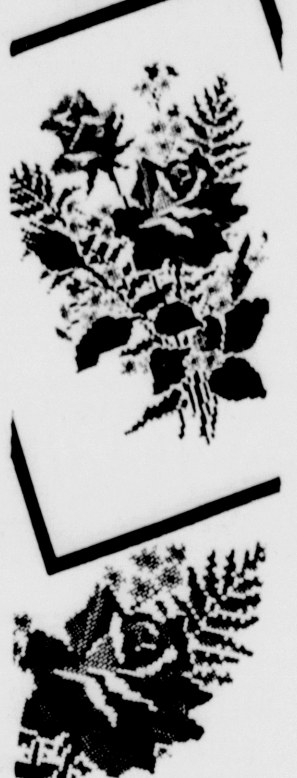

This dyes and waxes the exposed nicked place.

WALTZING MATILDA Works beautifully. Imagine! HELOISE.

Many birds like to bathe in fresh water or dust. This activity discourages vermin, but pleasure seems to be the birds' main motivation.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Handicap Helped This Dieter

Sometimes the very desperation of our plight will force us to muster the courage to take needed action.

You can take heart from today's story. This reducer succeeded magnificently, in the face of a great handicap. Here is her report:

"Your column about the Ida Jean Kain discouraged woman who weighs 200 pounds at age 47, has prompted me to tell your readers of my experience in losing weight.

"The year I was 48 I came down with a circulatory ailment. My doctor said I must absolutely lose weight or spend the rest of my life in a wheelchair.

"I WEIGHED 240 pounds. I am 5' 5" tall. In a year and a half I reduced 92 pounds. This weight loss gave me a whole new lease on life. It can be done. All this took place eighteen years ago and today I still weigh 148 pounds.

"I reduced on 1000 calories a day on a protective diet. I took no medicine to curb my appetite. I won't say it was easy. At times I was plenty hungry, especially in the beginning. At such times I would say to myself, 'Well, right now you are getting the pounds off.'

"My doctor said I would always have to be careful of my diet, and this is true. But I consider that a small price to pay for health. I now wear a size 18. It used to be a size 48.

"So, tell your readers to persevere and success will be theirs. Your column helps me so much. May God bless and keep you."

Cheers! It is letters such as yours, together with the requests for help, that keep this dietitian writing the column.

DIETERS, what would you say is the chief reason for her shining success? First, it was her attitude toward her circumstances. Faced with a circulatory ailment, she did not consider her limitation as a handicap to reducing. Instead, she accepted the challenge and stayed with the eating pattern that brought about a change in her food habits. To

Pedestrian Hit By Auto Treated And Released

A 61-year-old East Liverpool woman escaped with minor injuries when bumped by an auto Thursday at 3:31 p.m. at Dresden Ave. and Rural Ln., police reported.

Mrs. Catherine Novak of 222 W. 9th St. was released after treatment at City Hospital for scratches of the fingers of the right hand which apparently were suffered when she broke her fall after being struck by the car.

Police said she was bumped by a 1963 four-door sedan driven by John K. McCarron, 26, of 1620 Clark Ave., Wellsville.

McCarron reported he was driving east in Rural Ln. and halted at the junction of Dresden Ave. to look for oncoming traffic. He said when he began to pull onto Dresden Ave. his car bumped the pedestrian, who was crossing in front of him. McCarron reported he did not see the woman until the impact.

A DISTRICT motorist complained of injuries after a collision at E. 5th St. and Broadway Thursday at 7:58 p.m., but told police he would consult his family physician.

He is Jess R. Fordyce, 50, of 5th St., Glenmoor, whose 1962 sedan was bumped from behind while halted at a traffic signal. Officers said the Fordyce car was struck by a 1963 sedan operated by Gary D. Jeffries, 17, of 211 Broadway.

Jeffries reported he looked aside for a moment, causing his auto to bump the rear of the Fordyce car.

A Chester woman escaped injury and her car was damaged moderately when it went over an embankment and struck a tree at 5:53 this morning on Ceramic St., 300 feet east of Oakwood Ave., Pleasant Heights, police reported.

Maxine M. Woods, 21, of 214 Indiana Ave., Chester, told officers she was driving west on Ceramic St. when she pulled too close to the edge of the right-of-way. Soft earth on the berm

Court Income Boosted $835

Municipal Court revenue hit $3,957 in April, an increase of $835 from the $3,122 listed in March, it was shown today in the monthly report of Wilbur J. Harmon, clerk.

The court turned over $3,351 of its April revenue to the city treasury, an increase of $537 from the $2,814 paid the municipality in March.

The city's share of the revenue was comprised of $352 in costs from civil cases, $2,652 in fines, costs and forfeits in criminal cases and $346 in penalties resulting from State Highway Patrol citations.

In addition to the amount paid the city, the court turned over $359 to the state treasury, a boost of $1,028 from the $6,571 handled in March. The sums handled last month included $3,175 in the civil branch and $4,423 in the criminal branch.

A breakdown showed 46 civil cases filed in April, 55 disposed of and 192 left pending; 48 city criminal cases filed, 47 disposed of and 116 left pending, and 60 state criminal cases filed, 56 disposed of and 171 left pending.

Sunday Blue Law In Pennsylvania To Face Fight

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A supermarket chain indicated Thursday it's going to challenge Pennsylvania's so-called Sunday blue law.

After the manager of a Foodland store was fined $100 by a police magistrate for violating a Pittsburgh ordinance based on the law, attorney Maurice L. Kessler said it was a test case and would be appealed to Allegheny County Court.

Kessler represented Thomas Kozuch, who was named in a police information as operating the store in violation of the ordinance April 24.

According to Robert Dower, an assistant city solicitor, Pittsburgh's ordinance stemmed from a state law prohibiting Sunday sales by any food store with more than 10 persons on its payroll at any time.

Kessler contended that only nine persons were working in the store April 24, and the law does not apply in that case.

Abe's Hope Made 5-2 Favorite In Kentucky Derby

Field Of 16 Expected To Run Saturday

By BOB COOPER
Associated Press Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Bill Shoemaker, trying to become the first jockey in 64 years to ride two Kentucky Derby winners in a row, climbs aboard the pre-race favorite, Abe's Hope in Saturday's 92nd Derby.

Abe's Hope, from the Grand Prix Stable of Joe Bartell and Robert Byfield, was made a 5-2 favorite by the Churchill Downs handicapper. Racing fans who start their Derby betting this afternoon could change the picture.

A field of 16, including two questionable starters, were entered Thursday, each adding $500 to the Derby pot. If all start, the 1 1/4-mile classic will gross $164,000. If any drop out, its starting fee of $1,000 will be subtracted from the total.

Second choice at 7-2 before the betting starts was shared by Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Stupendous, carrying the colors of the Wheatley Stable, and Kauai King, owned by Michael J. Ford of Omaha.

Reginald Webster's Amberoid, the winner of the Wood Memorial, was next at 6-1. Shoemaker, beginning to grey a little at 34, will be starting in his 15th Derby, more than any other active rider. The retired Eddie Arcaro holds the all-time record with 21 appearances and six winners.

Shoemaker has won three times, including last year with Lucky Debonair. Still being in the race, he says, still is the biggest thrill in his life.

Still in doubt as Derby starters are Sean E. Indian, with a bothersome leg scratch, and Blue Skyer.

"They just talked me into entering," trainer Jim Padgett said after he pulled a surprise and made Blue Skyer the last entry in the box.

Padgett, sounding very doubtful, said Ray Broussard will be his jockey "if we really start."

Sean E. Indian may not go because of a slight leg injury.

Amberoid, due his final pre-Derby track appearance in a blowout today, drew the inside post position for the Derby, which had a 5:30 p.m. EDT post time. It will be televised by CBS.

Blue Skyer, named with Rehabilitate, Dominar, Beau Sub and Sean E. Indian as the mutual betting field, drew the No. 2 spot.

Stupendous goes from No. 3, Rehabilitate from No. 4 and Advocate, still to win a race in seven starts this season, starts from the fifth slot.

Dominar, Fleet Shoe and Exhibitionist will be in the sixth, seventh and eighth gates.

Beau Sub goes from No. 9, Sky Guy from No. 10 and Tragview from No. 11.

Kauai King starts in the 12th gate, next to Abe's Hope in No. 13. Abe's Hope also happened to be the 13th horse officially entered in the race Thursday.

Sean E. Indian, in No. 14. Quinta in No. 15 and Williamston Kid on the outside complete the field.

Betting on the Derby begins today and will be allowed all day on Saturday. Churchill Downs expects the mutual handle to be close to last year's record $2.2 million.

Tebbetts Won't Compare, But Rates Sam With Best

NEW YORK (AP) — Sandy Koufax or Sam McDowell? Who is the best?

Birdie Tebbetts, McDowell's boss as manager of the Cleveland Indians, is getting tired of hearing the question at each road stop.

"How can you compare them?" said Tebbetts Thursday after the American League-leading Indians had run their record to 14-1 with a 4-0 victory over the New York Yankees. "Koufax is at the peak of his career, the big man on a World Series winner. Sandy has arrived. McDowell is just on the way. He has barely started. There is no way of learning the job until you have gone through it."

Tebbetts has managed some pretty fair pitchers down through the years at Cincinnati, Milwaukee and Cleveland. He balks at comparing any of them with Sudden Sam.

"I don't want to get into the business of comparing pitchers," he said. "I don't want to put a monkey on his back. Let's talk about the pitchers that I caught when I was playing. I'll say this, McDowell belongs in the same class with any of the great pitchers that I caught at the same stage of their careers."

At various times, Tebbetts caught such pitchers as Hal Newhouser, Mel Parnell, Tommy Bridges, Bob Lemon, Bob Newsum, Dizzy Trout, Tex Hughson, Early Wynn and Bobby Feller.

"A ball club isn't a great ball club just because it wins 14 of its first 15 games. A pitcher isn't a great pitcher because he is the man of the moment with four straight. Personally, I do think McDowell is going to be great. But give him time. Let's not put the monkey on his back," Tebbetts added.

McDowell could set a major league record tonight if he throws a one-hitter against Baltimore.

That's about like saying a fellow could tie a record if he pitched a perfect game. But the facts are that McDowell fired one-hitters against Kansas City and Chicago in his last two outings. The only other pitchers to do that were Lon Warneke, Mort Cooper and Whitey Ford.

Annual Spring Grid Tilt, Clinic Set At Ohio State

By HAL PARIS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Coach Woody Hayes will give fans a sneak preview of Ohio State's 1966 football team Saturday when the Buckeyes play their annual spring game.

The 2 p. m. contest in Ohio Stadium climaxes five weeks of grid drills and highlights Ohio State's 35th annual high school football clinic.

More than 1,000 coaches and their assistants from all parts of the state will gather for the two-day event that includes lectures from such prominent coaches as Tom Prothro of UCLA.

Prothro, whose team defeated Michigan State in the Rose Bowl, will discuss "the Quarterback Run-Pass Offense."

Other speakers on the agenda include Ohio State aides Esco Sarkkinen, William Mallory, Larry Catuzzi and Hugh Hightman; Earle Bruce, athletic director and head football coach at Massillon High, and Bron Bacevich, Cincinnati Roger Bacon mentor.

A highlight of a banquet tonight will be the presentation of "Moments of Greatness" awards to three former Buckeye gridgers. Plaques will go to Alan Fiers, Joe Trivisono and Tom Matte.

Ohio State, which must rely heavily on sophomores this fall, will have at least five first-year men in the starting offensive lineup in the Scarlet-White skirmish.

The first attack unit includes Billy Anders and Bill DeRoss at ends; Mike Current and Dave Foley, tackles; Bill Eachus and John Kelley, guards; Ray Pryor, center; Gerald Ehrman or Bill Long at quarterback; Rudy Hubbard and Leroy Peyton at halfbacks and Paul Hudson, fullback.

Of this group, Foley of Cincinnati, DeRoss from Akron, Ehrman of Toledo, Long of Dayton and Peyton from Lorain are freshmen.

Peyton, a 5-foot-8, 178-pound scabbard, has been one of the brightest surprises of the spring drills. At least a dozen other fresh stars have looked good and are bidding for starting berths. The defensive lineup is indefinite because of injuries.

Women Boosters Plan Lunch Sale

A lunch sale for May 14 was planned when the Lady Potter Boosters Club met.

Workers were named for the lunch sale and Mrs. Jean Stoddard, president, presided.

The club will suspend meetings for the summer, continuing again on Aug. 29 when a cover-dish dinner will be held at Thompson Park. A meeting will follow.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Louise Smith, Eleanor Cranston and Alcie Johnson.

Al Hirt is a 3-year-old bay gelding bred in Kentucky. The horse is the son of Mrs. Music — Hasty Girl, by Princequillo.

AFL's Front Office Continues Reshuffle

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Football League continued its front office reorganization under newly appointed Commissioner Al Davis today by hiring Val Pinchbeck as director of special events.

Pinchbeck, 35, has been sports publicity director of Syracuse University for the last 10 years.

Canadiens Take Title On 3-2 Overtime Win

By BERNIE KENNEDY
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — For the first time in his life, Henri Richard knows exactly how his big brother felt when he scored six overtime goals in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

His brother, Maurice (The Rocket), remains five up on him but the goal Henri scored Thursday night has to be the biggest of his life. It gave the Montreal Canadiens an overtime 3-2 victory over the Detroit Red Wings and a second straight Cup.

The Canadiens became only the second team in the 40-year modern history of the Cup to win it after dropping the first two games in the best-of-7 series. Montreal won four games in a row in gaining its 12th Cup championship.

Richard, bothered by a leg injury during the semifinals, did not score a goal in the playoffs until he put on the red light at the 2:20 mark of the overtime session.

"Dave Balon shot the puck across to me and someone grabbed my stick and the puck hit me and went in," Richard said.

Detroit goalie Roger Crozier, who was named the Most Valuable Player in the playoffs, had a different version of the game-winner.

"Richard was flat on the ice and he knocked the puck in with his glove," Crozier said. "I protested to referee Frank Udvari but he said the puck was in and that was that."

Quantic Relays Draws Top Stars

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — It looked almost like the Penn Relays all over again today as a field of 1,700—including 14 Olympians of 1964—began an assault for championships in the 10th annual Quantic Relays.

The list of entries, so big that competition was scheduled to begin two hours earlier today and Saturday than in past years, boasted teams which won five major relays last week at Philadelphia and at least five of the individual Penn Relays championships.

Although most of the finals are on tap Saturday, the opening day program included such field events as the long jump, discus and high jump and such running events as the invitational 880-yard run, the 440-yard intermediate hurdles, the 10,000-meter run and the distance medley relay.

Yesterday's Stars

BATTING — Duke Sims, Indians, slammed two triples and a single, driving in two runs in Cleveland's 4-0 victory over the New York Yankees.

PITCHING — John O'Donoghue and Bob Allen, Indians, collaborated on three-hit, 4-0 shut out of Yankees.

HYENAS

QUESTION: Do laughing hyenas really laugh?

ANSWER: The hyena is such an awkward, unlovable-looking brute that one would imagine he's had little to laugh about—or we might think that, since he's so unpopular, it's a good thing he has a sense of humor to fall back on. The truth is, however, that the hyena doesn't laugh; he has a kind of shrieking howl which is frightening to hear and is often described as being what one might imagine the laughter of a demon would be like, and this strange sound has given him the nickname of laughing hyena. Hyenas prowl and hunt at night, and quite possibly their crazy laughing howl may scare away other predatory animals who have killed game, which is just what the hyena wants, as he prefers to eat food which has been killed by other animals. Although so clumsy in appearance, hyenas have exceedingly strong jaws and one would think would be well able to catch their own food. But they have a skulking, cowardly streak and prefer to leave the hard work of hunting to some other animal. There are three kinds. The striped hyena is found in Asia Minor, India, Persia and parts of Africa, and the brown hyena in South Africa. The spotted hyena, which we illustrate, also comes from Africa.

FOR YOU TO DO: Color the upper picture so it looks like moonlight. The hyena should be a deep greenish brown and the sky behind a grayish blue; but leave the moon pure white. Put some spooky color on ground and mushrooms.

Driver Enters Denial In Hit-Run Charge

Ray Wallace, 22, of 830 Pennsylvania Ave., pleaded not guilty today in Municipal Court on a charge he failed to stop after his auto was involved in a collision with a parked car Sunday on Dresden Ave. north of Moore St.

The affidavit was signed by Anna Mae Warrick of 911 Dresden Ave., who alleged that Wallace's auto struck her car, causing heavy damage. Wallace requested a continuance to obtain counsel. The judge continued the hearing until Monday at 9 a.m. and set the defendant's bond at $25.

The affidavit alleges that Wallace "having been involved in a collision with another motor vehicle, did fail to stop and give pertinent information required by law." At the time of the mishap, officers said the offending car apparently went out of control while rounding a curve, traveled on a long diagonal line for 170 feet and rammed the front of the Warrick auto.
